

Organization

- Everything has a home
- When things have a home, you know where to find them
- Organizational habits are developed through repetition and practice.
- Easier to be organized when things are simplified
- Noticing, be mindful, aware and paying attention
- Organizational motivations – why it matters